On November 10, 2023, ATO Hong Kong joined a visiting delegation from the Ginseng Board of Wisconsin at the Wisconsin Ginseng Love Festival Press Event. Twenty-six local influencers and five media representatives were introduced to a specially curated menu featuring different applications of Wisconsin Ginseng, a perfect ingredient for Cantonese cuisine. The Board also took the opportunity to recognize key Hong Kong traders for their longstanding partnership. Hong Kong has been a great customer of U.S. ginseng and the top export destination for many years. In fact, when the U.S. diplomatic relationship with Hong Kong began in 1843, the first U.S. Consul General helped introduce products like U.S. ginseng to the city. In 2022, U.S. ginseng exports to Hong Kong grew 13 percent compared to 2021 and valued at $22 million. During the first nine months of 2023, U.S. ginseng exports grew 29 percent year-on-year. A special shout-out to our avid Wonton readers in Wisconsin!!

China - U.S. Meeting Sends Positive Signal for Global Economic Recovery [The Standard, Nov 21]

Following the highly anticipated summit between President Xi Jinping and his U.S. counterpart, Joe Biden, there is growing optimism that increased communication, dialogue, and consultation between the world's two largest economies will strengthen cooperation, align common interests, and add much-needed certainty to the evolving global landscape. Bilateral economic and trade cooperation, long seen as the stabilizing force and driving factor in China-U.S. relations, is among the first to experience a thaw, as a series of dialogues and exchanges in this regard has sent a positive signal to both sides and the global economy. At the sixth China International Import Expo in Shanghai earlier this month, a total of $505 million worth of deals were signed by exhibitors participating in the American Food and Agriculture Pavilion. The pavilion, co-hosted by the United States Department of Agriculture and AmCham Shanghai, marks the first U.S. government participation in the expo in six years.

Hong Kong Lowers Full-year Growth Forecast to 3.2 Percent, Government Economist Warns Geopolitical Tensions, High Interest Rates Affect Outlook [SCMP, Nov 10; HKSAR- Press Release, Nov 10]

The government has lowered its full-year forecast for Hong Kong's economic growth to 3.2 percent, warning that a worsening external environment, rising geopolitical tensions and high interest rates will continue to pose challenges. He explained a worsening external environment would continue to affect the city's economic outlook, but more visitors, increased household income and government initiatives such as the "Night Vibes Hong Kong" campaign could boost growth. In the third quarter, private consumption tapered off to 6.3 percent growth, year-on-year, compared with a 7.7 percent rise in the previous three-month period. The city's exports dropped by 8.6 percent due to weak external demand. Hong Kong's economy is closely linked to that of mainland China. In the third quarter, mainland's economy grew 1.3 percent compared to the previous three-month period, and 4.9 percent year-on-year amid a weakened property market. ATO Notes: The annual GDP estimate was lowered from 4 to 5 percent. Hong Kong's GDP growth grew 1.5 percent in the second quarter, down from a 2.9 percent increase in the first quarter.

Economy At 77 Percent of Pre-pandemic Levels [Macau Daily Times, Nov 20]

In the third quarter of 2023, Macau's economy expanded 116.1 percent year-on-year, attributable to thriving services exports. Notably, growth in gaming services exports and other tourism services grew 781.4 percent and 255.4 percent, respectively. The city's GDP has been recovering since borders reopened in January after nearly three years of lockdown. Data from the Statistics and Census Service (DSEC) indicated imports of goods and services rose 25.7 percent and 58.2 percent, respectively. Conversely, exports of goods dropped 9 percent. For the first three quarters of 2023, GDP surged 77.7 percent year-on-year, and Macau's overall economic output returned to 77.4 percent of its 2019 level during the same period. Fitch Ratings had anticipated growth of up to 65 percent in Macau's economy this year driven by sustained recovery in the gaming and tourism sector. The ratings institution had anticipated it could take until at least end-2025 for GDP to return to 2019 levels, along with moderate non-gaming diversification.

Macau's Population is Now Bigger than Pre-pandemic Levels [The Macau News, Nov 13]

At the end of the third quarter, Macau's population was estimated at 681,300 people or 1,700 more than there were in December 2019 – the last month before the pandemic struck. In a quarter-on-quarter comparison, the Statistics and Census Service (DSEC)'s latest figures show a jump of 2,500 people that the DSEC attributes to an increase in non-resident workers living in Macau. A massive hike that the DSEC attributed to an influx of non-resident workers outside of Macau rushing back to the city before pandemic-related entry restrictions started on February 20. ATO Notes: Macau has a very small population and continues to deal with labor shortages across sectors. In 2019, Macau's population was 679,600 people. During the pandemic, the city's population dropped significantly, hitting a low 671,900 people during the third quarter of 2022.

Casino Sector to “Unlikely” Reach $23 Billion GGR [Macau Daily Times, Nov 15]

Chief Executive Ho Iat Seng doubts that gross gaming revenue (GGR) will reach $23 billion this year. The government's forecast for this year stands at only $17 billion. However, Macau government's contracts with the six gaming concessionaires stipulated that an additional 20 percent of its pledge in the non-gaming investment will be required if gaming revenues recover to $23 billion this year. Until October, the casino sector has already generated a GGR of $19 billion. This comes after October figures hit another post-pandemic record high of $2.5 billion, buoyed by the National Day Golden Week in early October. Meanwhile, Macau has recorded a slight slowdown in its casino floor revenues during the Grand Prix, with Citigroup analysts noting that “some big players avoided going to Macau” during the races over the weekend. ATO Notes: Although Macau is working to expand their tourism offerings, gaming still brings the most revenue to the city.

Hong Kong's Japanese Restaurants Close as Patrons Take Off for Holidays [SCMP, Nov 20]

Almost a third of Hong Kong's Japanese restaurants closed their doors permanently this year as the city's ban on imported seafood from Japan took its toll, on top of a slower than expected recovery in tourism, industry leaders have said. The cheap yen ($0.07 for 100 yen) has meant more Hongkongers are travelling to Japan and finding that they can eat well for a fraction of what they would pay in the city. Ray Chui Man-wai, the president of catering body Institute of Dining Art, estimated at least 30 percent of Japanese restaurants had closed since the border with mainland China reopened at the beginning of the year. ATO Notes: Hong Kong has one of the largest number of Japanese restaurants outside Japan, with 1,400 last year. In the third quarter of 2023, total restaurant receipts dropped 1 percent to $3.4 billion compared with previous three months. There is a significant hit on Japanese establishments after the Hong Kong government banned seafood imports from some Japanese prefectures in August. While local traders still believe that the impact of these bans will be temporary, cheaper regional currencies encouraging Hongkonger's latest craze to leisure travel is having a long-lasting impact on the city's food and beverage sector.

Leading the hike were Western Restaurants (+68.5 percent), followed by Chinese Restaurants (+46.5 percent), and Local Style Cafes, Congee & Noodle Shops (+35.3 percent), this increase was partially offset by the drop registered in Japanese & Korean Restaurant operations (-27.9 percent). ATO Notes: The drop in Japanese restaurant receipts can be partially attributed to the city government's ban on Japanese seafood (broader in scope than that imposed in Hong Kong). In addition, consumers are reportedly less interested in selecting food items from Japan or dining at Japanese restaurants.

The high-profile event comes as Hong Kong struggles to claw back its appeal as a global luxury shopping hub. Years of harsh pandemic curbs battered its appeal for tourists, while visitors from mainland China — which account for about 80 percent of total inbound travel and are a core pillar of the city's retail landscape — are more cautious about how they splash their cash amid economic headwinds at home. The city still faces competitions from nearby gambling hub, Macau and China's tax-free island, Hainan. ATO Notes: Hong Kong's tourist arrivals in September had returned to 59 percent of 2018 levels. According to Hong Kong's Immigration Department, the total visitor arrivals in September 2023 contributed 2.7 million visitors (78 percent of travelers were from mainland).
